America's cheeses

Mozzarella has beaten cheddar as the most popular cheese in America for six years straight Per capita consumption of cheese varieties since 1970:

Notes: Non-cheddar American cheeses include Colby, washed curd, stirred curd and Jack. Non-Mozzarella Italian cheeses include Provolone, Romano, Parmesan and Ricotta, among others. Other cheeses calculated as total minus other categories.
Source: USDA dairy data

Last year, each American ate an average of 11 pounds (5kg) of mozzarella cheese. That's about 1/3 of all the cheese! and more than any other type of cheese, it's also the most they have eaten since 1970.

The most popular cheeses are foreign cheeses that are not American. Cheeses like Colby cheeses, Jack cheeses, and Cheddar cheese. Mozzarella — which is an "Italian type" of cheese — has become very popular in recent decades, and it beat cheddar for the last six years.

More people are eating cheese because of an increased demand for pizza. The pizza industry was worth almost $40 billion in the United States last year, almost 25% more than 10 years ago, and we're living in a great time for cheese!

Because there is so much extra cheese, it is cheaper to buy and makes it easier for companies like Pizza Hut to put lots of cheese on top. It also makes McDonalds' all-day breakfast cheaper for the company which means more profit!

Doctors at the 'Centre for Science' are not happy about having so much fatty cheese waiting to find its way into our diet. "Cheese-eating is at an all-time high and it really shows no signs of stopping," said Mr Smith. "Restaurants are very creative in finding new ways to throw extra cheese on food".

"But this is America", said Mr Smith, "we will continue to eat more pizza than is good for our body". It would be nice if people ate more vegetables and less cheese!
